Foreword

At last we've reached the climax of our high school career. Behind us are memories that we hold very dear; ahead are promises of the future—a future that we ourselves will build.

The graduating class of 1959 of Ipswich High School takes this opportunity to thank all those interested people who guided us through "the most wonderful years of our lives."

CLASS HISTORY

By LYNDA THOMAS

EIGHTH GRADE

In September of 1954, we entered the halls of I. H. S. as eighth graders. Although we had been previously sports rivals of the Shotswell, Winthrop, and Burley schools, we were now one big group — "The Class of 1959." The beginning of five hoppy years here was underway.

Our first class business, the choosing of officers, resulted in the election of President—Bruce Franklin, Vice-President, Rolond Singer, Secretary—Phil Hudson, and Treasurer—Dick Austin.

We soon become acquainted with everything the school had to offer, including the detention hall which never seemed to lack at least a dozen eighth graders. Mr. Burke was an exciting personality and many of the eighth grade girls had mad crushes on him—with the exceptions of Nancy and Lillian whose romances with "Rich" and "Joe," respectively, were going strong. Phil Hudson's hilarious antics brightened up many a class for us, and for his teachers, I am sure. Let's not omit the fact that we were all proud of our class' representation on the grid-iron and our cheering section whose curious actions contributed much to winning games.

Before we knew it, spring was upon us and the remaining school days passed quickly taking many memories with them.

FRESHMAN YEAR

On our return in the fall, we found that a few of our best liked classmates had left us; but their places were taken by Valerie Bernard, Richard Burns, David Kopeck, Patricia Kieffer, and Marilyn Morino.

That year held many surprises: one especially, in the beginning, was a campaign by the girls to replace the all-male slate of officers with girls. The vote ran as follows: President, James Word; Vice-President, Bruce Franklin; Secretary, Veronica Calhoun; Treasurer, Diana Peterson.

Most of the freshmen girls were given a ride in Richard Antonucci's car, for he was our first classmate to obtain a driver's license.

We can never forget Lillian that year, for she was our student representative for the town's Sanitation Department. She had expected to observe the department's office, but instead, she found herself "bouncing" around town in a rubbish truck.

Our freshman boys showed great ability on the football field with Sam Jackson, Tam Hills, and Bruce Franklin working especially hard, as did our newly elected Varsity cheerleaders — Gail Standley, Lynda Thomas, Nancy McNulty, and Mary Ellen Hinton.

Our freshman Saint Patrick's Day dance was called off because of a terrific blizzard and the disappointment was great, for everything had been prepared to the last detail, including the punch.

The days once again slipped by and another attractive vacation awaited us.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

When we returned in the fall, we were met by Mr. Cannon and Mr. O'Kane. We all felt quite relieved, for we no longer could be called "little" Freshmen, but "little" Sophomores. This was the year for nicknames. Can you remember who was called "Sideburns," "Donkey," and "Battles?" Richard Austin was continually planting tacks in Mr. DeStefano's home room, causing much pain and little laughter from the persons involved. Gerry was also very mischievous, for a week never passed without his playing a trick on Mrs. Lowney. On one of these occasions, he brought a puppy into the class. Mrs. Lowney was so intrigued by it, that the class took up a collection to give her a dog as a going-away present. We also lost a well-liked classmate in the person of Sam Jackson.

Our Ring Committee, headed by Janet Tullercash, discussed the possibilities of a school ring — but the idea was not accepted.

In the sports program, we were represented by Bruce Franklin, Richard Burns, Howard Stone, John Jensen, and Dan Hazen on the J. V. basketball squad. Although the Varsity did rather poorly that year, the J. V. games were always very exciting and usually successful.

The Sophomore Valentine Dance was held on February 16, with music provided by the "Harmonaires." The decoration committee headed by Nancy McNulty and Janet Publicover, certainly created a work of art, for the gym had been transformed into romantic scenes with a boy and girl standing under an archway as the most prominent. Our schoolmates seemed to think that the elimination dance was "fixed," for Lillian and partner Neddie Stane, won.

Throughout this happy year, we were led by President Howard Stone, Vice-President Robert Walker, Secretary Veronica Callahan, and Treasurer Diana Peterson.

JUNIOR YEAR

For our Junior year, the class officers, except the Vice-President, were re-elected. The Vice-President's position was filled by Bruce Franklin. David Wanzer, Janet Publicover, Howard Stone, and David Kopec were the Junior representatives on the Student Council.

We were all very proud of our co-Captain of the football team, Tommy Hills.

Although our Ring Committee, with Gerry Hull as chairman, went into action early in the year, class rings were not received until March. Marilyn had a clear field with Mr. Sine as we all knew she was his "undisputed girlfriend." Lillian was chosen to replace Mary Ellen Hinton on the Varsity cheerleading squad, and Ipswich High School was presented with a school banner by the V. F. W. Bruce Franklin was quite the "Muzzey" junior, for he kept his U. S. History class in gales of laughter for the year. Richard Antonucci was teased greatly for his remark, "Look at the humor on the windows." The "marvelous aroma from the lab, made by our budding scientists, kept students from doing their work for almost two days. No classmates, it wasn't the lunch!

After our very successful Christmas Dance, with music handled by Dick Johnson, the anticipation of our Junior Prom took hold of all.

Our boys' basketball team did well, but bigger things were expected for it for the following year. John Jensen, our "Class Clown" finally received his license, a cute black and white car, and a terrific scare the night of the Senior Play.

On Friday, May 2, the members of the Junior Class assembled in a gym made beautiful by the work of the efficient decoration committee. This was the night of our long-awaited Junior Prom. The entire room was transformed into an "Oriental Paradise," with many figures of bright metallic paper adorning the walls and a large multi-colored chandelier suspended from the ceiling. The grand march, led by the class officers, was a thrilling experience in class cooperation, and the bright promise of the occasion continued throughout the evening.

As the year rolled on, a play was presented by the Junior Class in commemoration of Memorial Day. Carol Sweetser, as a hotel maid, captured the audience. National Honor Society members were chosen; Rita Trask was chosen as Girls' State Representative; Howard Stone and Richard Burns were named Boys State representatives; and Veronica Callahan, Bruce Franklin, and David Kopec won the History Awards. And so came the final day of our Junior year.

SENIOR YEAR

When we returned in the fall of 1958, we were proud to be upperclassmen, to have front seats at assemblies, and to be first in lunch line. We had another privilege, that of being together in home room.

The class honored Howard Stone and Bruce Franklin by electing them a third time to the offices of President and Vice-President respectively, and Veronica Collahan and Diano Petersan a fourth time as Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

The football team, under Captain Hills, did a fine job considering its size and lack of experience. The season was one containing much student interest aroused by Mr. Antognani; the cheerleaders and band were present at the very successful rallies. At the end of the season, Tom Hills was awarded a gleaming trophy for the most popular football player.

Later, the presentation of the Hoffman Award was made to Bruce Franklin for his outstanding athletic and scholastic achievement. The varsity football squad welcomed their "sharp" new sweaters.

We were happy about the arrival of our class pictures in December, and the usual swapping of pictures with classmates occurred.

Before we realized it, half of our Senior year had elapsed, and it was now basketball season. The expectations of the previous year were fulfilled — the games were always thrilling, and we became the Cope Ann League champions. At the last basketball game, Captain Franklin was awarded the "Richard Pickard Trophy" as the most valuable basketball player.

In other scenes, Moryann sparked many a heated P. D. discussion, and Raxy Cowles won the title of "Betty Cracker Hamemaker of Tomorrow." Ronnie Collohon was elected D. A. R. girl, and Howie Stone our Student-Government Day Representative.

We sponsored some fine record hops dis-jockeyed by Gerry, Dove, and our own "Big Bopper," Jim Ward, who worked hard to keep the student body in suspense about April 3rd. The Senior Play "The Unguided Miss," was a great success, and everyone acted his part to a T.

Preparations for graduation seemed to take up the remainder of the year. Caps and gowns were chosen, graduation essays were awarded, class day parts elected, and preparation for the Senior Reception were underway.

Quickly, it seems now, our Senior Year has ended. Each of us shall file from these corridors into other aisles of life, and, as we enter these aisles, we take many precious memories with us—those of four unforgettable high school years.

CLASS PROPHECY

Location: Rocket launching site in Mid-West.

Time: 1979

Scene: Janet Tullercash and Howard Stone are being interviewed by reporters and interested bystanders.

Howard: It all began when Pat Saroko, head of our former Steering Committee, appointed Dr. David Kapec, a top scientist studying the vast areas of outer space, to find a suitable location for our twentieth reunion. David selected The Cha Cho Cho Club, owned and operated by Richard Antanucci.

Janet: However, Virginia Las, David's secretary, confused matters by giving to Brian Reedy, a Western Union Telegraph boy, the wrong envelope.

Howard: A few days later there appeared in Joe Saulnier's Saturday Review, the notice that the class of 1959, Ipswich High School, was to hold its twentieth reunion on the planet Latireg. (That's Gerital spelled backwards.)

Janet: Matters were then out of hand; so our Steering Committee consented to approve further plans for the flight to this unknown planet.

Howard: Diano Petersan, our class treasurer, and a day supervisor in the Massachusetts General Hospital, withdrew the class funds from the Notional Bank of New York, where Dale Maguire was head teller.

Janet: A few days later the plans were well underway and invitations were sent to each member of the class.

Howard: Phil Hudson, the designer of the rocket ship, appointed Henry Wright as chief mechanic, and as assistant, Nick Gotses. Wolter Wegzyn wired the electrical circuit for the rocket.

Janet: The ship was completed with ports furnished by Lee Greenberg, owner of the world's largest junk yard. The finishing touches were applied by Benny Krokawski and Joe Kmiec, sheet metal workers.

Howard: American Airline Stewardesses Meredith Richardsan and Jonice Batemon volunteered to help.

Janet: Attorney Bruce Franklin, currently serving a term in the United States Senate, was delegated to obtain a permit to travel into outer space. He and his personal advisor, Lyndo Thomas went directly to the President of the United States, James A. Ward, who granted the request.

Howard: The week before take-off saw many of our former classmates arrive from all over the world.

Janet: The fashion world suffered when three of its most prominent coutouriers joined our expedition: Nancy Kelleher, our former best-dressed senior, owner of a fashionable shop arrived from Paris.

Howard: With her came Susan Hamm, her designer, and Nancy McNulty her New York representative.

Janet: From the land of the Blue Grass came a horse enthusiast, Rita Trask, whose racing horses have been victorious in the Kentucky Derby.

Howard: Dave Gardan came directly from Indianapolis, where he had just triumphed in the 500-mile race.

Janet: We received a telegram from Jahnne Jensen, New York Yankee centerfielder, who is leading the American League in home runs. We regret that he will be unable to attend the reunion since his team is battling for the World's Championship, and he realizes that he is needed by the team.

Howard: Veranica Callahan, a former teacher and now Superintendent of Schools in Ipswich, brought along two of our former classmates who are teachers in that school system, Marilyn Marino, who replaced Mr. Sine as head of the science department, and Maryann Kelly, principal of the Junior High.

Janet: Another celebrity, actress Carol Sweetser, interrupted production on her movie and is expected to arrive momentarily.

Howard: The only mishap arose when Gail Standley, owner of a large sailing yacht, traveled to Australia to pick up Elaine Gauthier and Raxy Cawles, government social workers. On the way back their ship lost its course in a hurricane. They were soon rescued, however, by Gerry Hull, Commodore of the U. S. Coast Guard, and Burt Stackhouse, Admiral of the United States Navy, who were also en route to the take-off site.

Janet: Another of our classmates, Thomas Hills, holds two head-coaching positions in a neighboring university; football in the fall, and the upcoming sport, marbles, in the summer.

Howard: Joe Dupray was the classmate who came the greatest distance, endangering his life in his escape from the French Foreign Legion.

Janet: Bill Stevens, a chemical technologist, synthesized the high-powered rocket fuel for our trip. Susan Stone, head librarian at the New York City Library, suggested the books which he used as references.

Howard: The fuel was trucked in by Barry Ewing, who is a tap-notch driver for Euclide LeBel's Trucking Lines.

Janet: Janet Publicaver, one of the outstanding artists of the country, will paint several scenes of the memorable event.

Howard: Glenala Amerault, and Christine Doty, kindergarten teachers, announced that they will conduct activities in a playroom for the children of our classmates.

Janet: Late arrivers at the take-off site included: U. S. government accountant, Paul Thibodeau, and his secretary Pat Kieffer.

Howard: Also in the group was Donald Hazen, a college basketball coach during the winter and a top rock and roll recording artist, whose latest record was a gold platter.

Janet: The last people to arrive were The David Wanzers our class girlologist, who has taken over the Bob Cumming's show, and his wife, the former Miss Sandra Dee.

Howard: Richard Burn's the ship's pilot, made the following announcements: James Farley, wildlife conservation officer would be the first person to set foot on the planet, Latireg; he would determine whether the planet was safe for human inhabitants.

Janet: Entertainment would be provided during flight by ballet prima donna, Marcia Maguire.

Howard: Refreshments would be served by Valerie Bernard and Nancy Goody, who own an ice cream parlor in downtown Ipswich called "Valerie's".

Janet: The last announcement made by pilot Burns was that the flight would get underway in five minutes.

Howard: Upon hearing this, Bill Bodwell, architect of the world's largest P. & A. food store, rushed up the ladder to the ship's entrance. On the fifth step, Bill slipped and stubbed his toe. The nurses from our group administered First Aid.

Janet: Lillian Atkinson gave him several high-powered pills. Mary MacKenzie took his blood type, and Annie Frederick set up the transfusion apparatus. Martha Patterson gave him several sedative shots in the arm.

Howard: Peter Soffron, part owner in Soffron Bros., Clams, Inc., treated the whole class to a sea food dinner before the take-off.

Janet: And now, if we don't want to miss the flight and the fun, we had better hurry and board the ship ourselves.

SOFT LIGHTS-----MELLOW

An Oriental atmosphere enhanced this gala affair. Rickshaw scenes decorated the walls and two gigantic butterflies hung from the central multi-colored chandelier. The girls looked lovely—and their escorts, handsome. Our Junior Prom was an evening cherished by all!
